American Red Cross
Orange County Chapter
Melody was out for a leisurely round of golf on January 12, 2002. This pleasant outing with a friend changed as she saw what at first was thought to be a black bag floating in a water hazard was actually a body. A 54-year-old golfer had fallen in the water and was drowning. Pulled from the water, a blue, motionless, body confronted onlookers. Though she was scared, Melody jumped into action.

Following instructions that seemingly came to her from the voice of her CPR instructor, she applied CPR for 15 minutes until the paramedics arrived. “I just heard A, B, C – Airway, Breathing Circulation,” she said. The next words were from the golfer. “My name is Chuck,” he said. Melody Winter Nava had saved a life.

For more than a century, the American Red Cross has been saving lives with health and safety education programs. Red Cross training ranges from first aid, CPR and AED to swimming and lifeguarding; from HIV/AIDS education to caregiving programs like Babysitter’s Training. American Red Cross programs help people live safer and healthier lives.
Volunteers
Everyday Heroes

American Red Cross services exist in our community because of the dedication of local Red Cross volunteers. Whether they are responding to a disaster or teaching lifesaving skills such as CPR, these volunteers are the backbone of our organization. Currently, over 4,000 Orange County residents give their precious time to help others in need as Red Cross volunteers. Not only do our Red Cross volunteers assist Orange County residents in need, 71 dedicated volunteers responded this year to 11 different national disaster operations which included the terrorist attacks in New York and Washington D.C., flooding in Kentucky, Illinois, West Virginia and Virginia and a tornado in Maryland. Red Cross volunteers are there when help can’t wait.

People ask me if I get paid for responding to disasters on behalf of the American Red Cross. Oh I get paid with hugs and smiles. It moves me to be able to give people what they need in a time of disaster. Whether I’m responding to a disaster in Orange County or New York or Oregon, it’s all the same community. I’ve made lifelong friends on these jobs.

Disaster Services
When Disasters Strike

Orange County Red Cross volunteer Joe Greenwald was alerted by pager at 5:10 in the evening of July 21 about an apartment fire in the city of Anaheim. Arriving on scene at 6 p.m., Joe found the home of the Merestela family completely destroyed. Providing for the family’s immediate needs, Red Cross volunteers assisted the family of four (husband, wife and 2 daughters) with clothing, shoes, lodging and meals.

Thanks to the generous support of the Orange County community, the Red Cross can be there when disasters strike Orange County residents providing shelter, food, and health and mental health services to address basic human needs. This fiscal year, the Orange County Red Cross responded around the clock to 193 disasters throughout the county assisting 722 individuals in 192 families with immediate relief.

“Thanks to all the wonderful people at the Red Cross for everything! We’re so grateful to meet such wonderful and dedicated people who helped us in our most difficult time. With more than words can express, thank you so very much.”

Children are among the most vulnerable victims when disasters strike, or war erupts. Not only are their homes destroyed, but schools are often damaged, looted, or closed. The American Red Cross School Chest Program strives to assist children by making some of the basic tools such as pencils, chalk, and notebooks available to help them resume their normal routines.

The School Chest Program is just one of the many international services offered by the Orange County Red Cross that brings emergency relief to disaster victims, and improves basic living conditions of those in chronically deprived areas of the world.

"When you share with somebody else, it not only enriches your life, it enriches the life of our entire nation. Everybody can make a contribution in the war against evildoers; and helping a child in Afghanistan is a very important contribution."

President George W. Bush
Today, the involvement of young people with the American Red Cross is more important than ever. At the Orange County Chapter, we believe our young people are not only leaders of tomorrow, but they are also today’s leaders. The Youth Services program is playing a major role in preparing our young people for the future through programs that emphasize education, leadership, and volunteerism. That’s why we’re committed to doing whatever it takes to encourage them to get involved in making your community a better, safer place to be. This year alone, the Orange County Red Cross involved over 1,120 youth in over 40 Red Cross community service projects and activities, provided 178 middle and high school students the skills needed to become the leaders of tomorrow, distributing 4,000 new toys to needy children during the holiday season and provided HIV/AIDS education to 6,348 Orange County youth.

"Attending the Red Cross Leadership Development Camp in August changed my life. The camp taught me how not to judge people by sex, race, color, national origin, or stereotypes. My mom said that I came back a different person. She said I was more confident and more outgoing. To me, it was the best experience I have had so far. I will never forget the people I met and the experiences I had at camp."

Armed Forces Emergency Services

When loved ones are apart, we help them communicate.

The American Red Cross serves as the primary emergency communications link between military families and service members around the world. Both active duty and community-based military can count on the Red Cross to provide emergency communications, emergency financial assistance, counseling, veterans assistance and aid in the field where Red Cross workers are deployed to serve with America’s military. This year, the Orange County Red Cross assisted 848 families with 869 services.

“ Our family thanks you for your kindness when I called to request that you contact our son George Sedrick Leroy’s commander for emergency leave! Sedrick wanted to come home from Fort Benning, Georgia for his cousin’s funeral, a cousin who was more like an uncle than a cousin, and with whom he was very close.

We all thank you again for your help! Once again, you have confirmed that the Red Cross is an asset to our great country.
