Women Leading Through Philanthropy

Mission

The American Red Cross prevents and alleviates human suffering in the face of emergencies by mobilizing the power of volunteers and the generosity of donors.

The Tiffany Circle is a community of women leaders who advance the American Red Cross mission through a focused investment of time, talent and treasure by engaging and embracing women locally, nationally and internationally.

Women Leading Through Philanthropy

Since Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross in 1881, the organization has harnessed the compassion and determination of women to deliver its lifesaving mission. For more than a decade, the organization's Tiffany Circle has continued this legacy by advancing the Red Cross mission through investments of time, talent and treasure.

Tiffany Circle Members Make an Impact

Since the Tiffany Circle was founded in 2007, its members have made a lifesaving impact in their local communities, across the country and around the world. More than 1,000 members strong, these women have collectively provided extraordinary support—more than $120 million—to fulfill the mission of the Red Cross.

Home fires are the biggest disaster threat Americans face, taking the lives of seven people every day. Tiffany Circle members like Debra McBride are making households safer by going door-to-door, installing free smoke alarms and helping families create their escape plans.

Every eight minutes, the Red Cross responds to a home fire or other disasters. During large-scale disasters, dedicated Tiffany Circle members like Jennifer Wolcott engage their peers in supporting relief efforts and roll up their sleeves to deliver food, shelter and care.

Every two seconds, someone in America needs lifesaving blood. To meet this need, the Red Cross must collect nearly nearly 13,000 blood donations and more than 2,600 platelet donations every day. To help, member Sandy Klein funded a new bloodmobile—a self-contained blood collection vehicle that is vital to meeting this constant demand.

Inspired by the work of the American Red Cross-supported Measles and Rubella Initiative, members Kathy Flynn and Sara Horein have traveled to Kenya, Malawi and Indonesia to participate in these vaccination programs. Since 2000, we have helped vaccinate over 2.9 billion children against Measles and Rubella, preventing approximately 23.2 million deaths.

Tiffany Circle members also support our Service to the Armed Forces program. Every day, the Red Cross provides about 1,300 services to members of the military, veterans and their families.

Finally, communities across the country are safer because of members who have been trained in health and safety courses, such as Eleanor Morgan and Natalie Batchelor, who were trained in Citizen CPR. On average, more than 13,000 people each day receive lifesaving Red Cross training in first aid, water safety and other skills.

Building on this impact, the Tiffany Circle aims to be a best-in-class women’s philanthropy program in support of the Red Cross. The group’s strategic plan focuses on mission support, leveraging women in philanthropy, diversity and inclusion, and education and outreach.

“The strongest voice in philanthropy today is women. If you look at the essence of this group of passionate, committed, make-it-happen women. They’re game changers.”

Melanie Sabelhaus, co-founder of the Tiffany Circle

Treasured History

The Tiffany Circle name and its threshold contribution of $10,000 have historic significance. The name was inspired by the breathtaking Tiffany windows within the American Red Cross national headquarters in Washington, D.C.

These works of art were commissioned from the Louis Comfort Tiffany Studios in 1917 and were paid for through a $5,000 gift from the Women's Relief Corps of the North and a $5,000 gift from the United Daughters of the Confederacy of the South as an act of reconciliation and hope.

Today, these beautiful windows are featured in the newly renamed Tiffany Circle Hall, honoring the many contributions of the Tiffany Circle and its generous members.
