

José Dominguez is the chapter CEO for the American Red Cross on Long Island.

José's Red Cross career began more than 20 years ago in the Eastern New York Region. He previously served as the Regional Disaster Officer and Volunteer Services Officer for the Central and South Texas Region as well as the Regional Volunteer Services officer for the Greater New York Region.

During his tenure, José has deployed to support more than 70 national disaster relief operations, sharing his expertise in various operational management activities, including Staff Services Management and as the Assistant Director of Workforce Cares.

José is dedicated to the evolving progress of the Red Cross to ensure the wellbeing of its workforce and provide opportunities to build stronger leaders for the future. He participates in a variety of working groups and task forces, including the Volunteer Experience Workgroup, the Workforce Care Workgroup, the Latino Engagement Initiative Workgroup, and the Youth Services Engagement Workgroup.

In his local community José serves on the board of the NonProfit Cooperative, as a mentor for My Brothers Keeper in Brentwood, and recently joined the board of the Urban League of Long Island. And, much to their shared pride, since 2024 he and his husband regularly donate blood and platelets to save lives.

A native of Texas, José received his Bachelor of Fine Arts in Vocal Performance from Southwest Texas State University. He lives in Glen Cove with his husband of more than 20 years, Craig, and their fur-baby Buddy.
