

Christine Hanson

Christine Hanson is a seasoned procurement executive with more than 20 years of experience in strategic sourcing and global supply chain management. She currently serves as Chief Procurement Officer for a mid-sized manufacturing company, where she leads enterprise-wide procurement strategy and supplier partnerships.

Christine holds dual degrees in Business Management and International Studies from Saint Louis University. Throughout her career, she has blended strong business leadership with a deep commitment to community service. She serves on the boards of several nonprofit organizations, including the American Red Cross and Habitat for Humanity, where she contributes her expertise in governance, operations, and community engagement.

Beyond her professional and volunteer work, Christine enjoys spending quality time with her family, gardening, and relaxing with her golden retriever.