

Dr. Vivian Cintron

Dr. Vivian Cintron is a molecular biologist and geneticist with over 25 years of executive global expertise in medical, scientific affairs, clinical trials, and strategic business development working with Roche Diagnostics, DiaSorin and Cepheid Corporations. She is a strategic visionary with a strong business acumen and comprehensive knowledge of several disease areas. She has an Executive Leadership Certification from Cornell University, is a former US Army Reserve Captain, completed postdoctoral trainings at NIH and Eli Lilly, and obtained an MBA and Masters in Strategic Management from Indiana University Kelly Business School Bloomington, Indiana.

Currently, she is the Chief Operating Officer at Hoosier Cancer Research Network where she oversees the company operations and helps strengthening the relationships with investigators, institutions and industry.

Vivian's passion to help the community is reflected as she serves as a board member of the Red Cross at Indianapolis and member of COVID-19 Task Force. Vivian has served as board member of Methodist and Riverview Hospital where she was recognized as Women of Vision.

Vivian just published a multi-author book: Leading Through the Pandemic: Unconventional Wisdom from Heartfelt Leaders #1 Best Seller Internationally and #1 Amazon Best Seller across several categories in the United States: Business Mentoring & Coaching, Strategic Management, Entrepreneurship Management and Management Skills.

Vivian lives in Indiana and likes spending quality time with her husband, Tony, and dog, Kronos. Her extraordinary experience and career are only topped by her driven and upbeat personality and her contagious positive attitude.

Fun things to do: Hiking and Oil Painting!