

Darla Hoover is the Chief of Schools and Instructional Core for the Evansville Vanderburgh School Corporation. A native of Evansville, she graduated from Bosse High School and then received her Bachelor of Science degree in Professional Chemistry from the University of Evansville. After several years as a coatings chemist at Red Spot Paint, she entered a Transition to Teaching program at the University of Southern Indiana and began her teaching career at Bosse High School. She has held other positions in the EVSC including Science Department Chair, Assistant Principal-Programmer, Principal of Central High School, and the Director of High School Support, Curriculum, and Instruction. She lives in Evansville with her husband Brian and has three sons, ages 14, 18, and 24. Along with her middle son, Darla presently attends the University of Southern Indiana where she is working towards her Doctorate in Education. Helping young people achieve their goals and thrive in life is a passion for Darla, and she is honored to join the Red Cross Board.
